Current Investment Market situation and your AUSfund Account

Due to the recent downturn in investment markets, AUSfund is not presently required to subsidise administration fees applied to member accounts. As such, an adjustment to your balance may occur to cover the cost of administration. However, once the current situation improves sufficiently, this adjustment will no longer be necessary.

It is important to bear in mind that superannuation is a long term investment and over time your investment may fluctuate due to market volatility. For this reason, historical returns and short term market conditions should not be the sole basis of investment decisions.
